Carver High School

We are here again with the latest post-Christmas news. Everyone seems to have had a very pleasant holiday season from the usual stories and new things everyone is wearing or exhibiting. Santa was busy on the job. There is much need for rejoicing, especially here at Carver, for workmen are busy in the construction of our school. From the way work is going, our school will be up before we realize it.

Tuesday, practically all of our college students visited us. Bessie Williams, a student at Hampton Institute, spoke to the 11th grade English class telling them of her experiences and how important it is to get lessons daily. She is doing very good work at Hampton. Steven Russell, Leon Lawing and Dexter Johnson, all report their studies keep them busy, but how enjoyable college life is. Virginia Walker looks well, also, Arbrid Watkins and Hubert Wardlaw spent their entire holiday at home. They are now in the Junior Class at Virginia State.

The tenth graders all report a swell holiday. They are happy to have a former classmate back, Jenny Belle Hix. She has been in school a few days. The tenth graders are enjoying Physical Education class now. Their instructor, Mr. James, is teaching creative dances, which are very interesting.

In Activity Period on Tuesday, James Preston, from Park Central Senior High School of Bluefield, West Virginia, was visiting Jackie Lawing. Frances Megginson was visited also by Dexter Johnson, a former student, now of Virginia State.

Senenia Christian seems mighty glad to see Steve Russell from St. Paul.

Reginald and Almetnia Abbitt went to Baltimore for the holidays.

Claude Lambert seems very much interested in a pig which James wants him to have. Hope he gets it.

There were a lot of Seniors at the dance in Lynchburg to see Miss Ruth Brown and Willis Jackson. She really has talent for singing, at such a young age, and Mr. Jackson can really blow a sax.

The Seniors are now ready to settle down to six more months of hard study. Already Mr. Clay has given out reports in government, naturally!

Rachel Stratton of the 11th grade went to the big city of Washington for the holiday, and while there was entertained by Louis Jordan at Howard Theatre.

Some of the 11th graders had an automobile accident, but no one was badly hurt.

Some of our students didn't enjoy their vacation because they were in with the chicken pox.

Gloria Jenkins, of the seventh grade, spent her Christmas holiday with her parents in Baltimore.

Say, we wonder why Ross Fergerson carries so many funny pictures around in his wallet?

We are wondering when the Carver Detective Agency will get full particulars on the McCoy brothers' case—Reuben and Edward.

VIRGINIA HUNTERS BAG LONG-LIVED SPECIMENS

Reports have come in to the Richmond office of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries that two deer taken in Smyth County on November 21st bore ear tags indicating that they were part of the original releases which the Commission made in restocking the western areas of the state with whitetails.

One of the deer carried a tag reading "Pisgah 1938," indicating that it had been brought originally from the Pisgah National Forest in North Carolina and was at least 12 years old.

The restocking program that brought these deer into the mountains was the largest and most successful program of its kind in wild life history. An original planting of 1,783 deer in the area has increased until the Commission estimates that 40,000 deer now roam the mountainous section of the state.

ILLEGAL SHOOTING TAKES ADVANTAGE OF GOOD WATERFOWL SEASON

Hunter success reports to date indicate that more waterfowl are being taken in Virginia than have been taken during any season for the past five years. Some of the increased take has been dropping into the game bags of illegal hunters, however. One hunter was recently apprehented by federal and state wardens with se n large Canada geese.

In another incident last week, the federal and state men found a boat adrift in the York River. The boat contained two ducks and a quantity of corn. The wardens spotted two men waving handerchiefs in a blind several hundred yards away, and towed the boat back to them. The admitted ownership of the boat, and a dredging of the waters around their blind by the wardens revealed a heavy sowing of grain. The officers then arrested the so-called "sportsmen" an dsummoned them to court.

The men were downcast at the prospect of a heavy fine, but admitted that every cloud has a silver lining, since the return of their boat by the wardens saved them from spending a night in the open blind in sub-freezing weather.

POLIO VICTIMS AIDED

Richmond, Jan. 3.- The Virginia State Health Department received more than $11,000 during the 1950 in March of Dimes funds for special help to polio victims in the critical Wytheville area, a year-end summary of the program disclosed today.

Another $17,000 was paid to the Medical College of Virginia Hospital, Richmond, to supplement the standard hospital salaries of especially trained polio nurses assigned there by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to help care for Virginia's record case load during 1950.

The figugres were reported today by O. Lee Hodgkins, Eastern Virginia representative for the Foundation. Funds for such epidemic and emergency services this year will come from the March of Dimes campaign, scheduled for January 15 through 31.

INCREASED ACTIVITY AT VIRGINIA'S MAJOR PORT

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 3.- The growing importance of Virginia's ports business is pointed out in "The Ports of Greater Hampton Roads Annual, 1951," which is being distributed by the Hampton Roads Maritime Association.

In compiling the information for distribution to shipping and industrial interests, the Association included in this year's annual a summary of the increase in port and industrial activity between 1939 and 1949.

Commerce in the ports amounted to 27,014,543 tons in 1939 as compared with 31,291,284 in 1949. Exports jumped from 1,781,276 in 1939 to 10,623,770 tons last year. A big jump was shown in imports, from $42,918 tons in 1939 to 1,870,078—up more than a million tons and still rising.

In the field of industry, it was reported, payrolls increased from $19,425,888 in 1939 to $62,537,272 in 1949 in all manufacturing industries in the area. Employees increased fro m18,879 to 24,252. The value of manufactures jumped from $83,211,294 to $347,957,639 in the period.

The annual explains the operation of port facilities and includes a large colored map showing the areas from which products can be moved through Hampton Roads at a saving on freight rates.

The volume was compiled by Harry M. Thompson, executive vice president of the Hampton Roads Maritime Association.
